Leon Groth

Interaction design - M. Sc.

UX Designer Specializing in Front-Ends

I'm Leon, an Interaction Designer with a strong passion for user-centered design and front-end development. Throughout my academic journey, I've worked on multiple projects - both academic and personal - that involved designing and developing websites using tools like Figma and React. While most of these projects were single-iteration prototypes, my personal website has evolved through several versions, allowing me to continuously explore, test, and refine design and development practices.

Personal & Leisure time

I have lived in Aalborg for five years and currently reside in Aalborg Øst with my girlfriend and our Dachshund, Elvi. In my free time, I enjoy woodworking, a craft that challenges my creativity and attention to detail. I also dedicate time to improving my front-end development skills, strengthening my ability to create seamless digital experiences.
